What is a copyright?

Copyright is a form of protection grounded in the U.S. Constitution and granted by law for original works of authorship fixed in a tangible medium of expression. Copyright covers both published and unpublished works. In general, copyrights last for the life of the author plus 70 years past their death.

They protect:

- Sound recordings
- Architectural works
- Literary Works
- Musical/Dramatic Works
- Pantomimes and choreographic works
- Pictorial (images, paintings, drawings), graphic and sculptural work

What are the rights of the copyright owner?

Copyright provides the owner of copyright with the rights to:

- Reproduce the work in copies or phonorecords
- Create/Prepare derivative works based upon the work
- Distribute copies or phonorecords of the work to the public by sale or other transfer of ownership or by rental, lease, or lending
- Perform the work publicly if it is a literary, musical, dramatic, or choreographic work; a pantomime; or a motion picture or other audiovisual work
- Display the work publicly if it is a literary, musical, dramatic, or choreographic work; a pantomime; or a pictorial, graphic, or sculptural work. This right also applies to the individual images of a motion picture or other audiovisual work.
- Perform the work publicly by means of a digital audio transmission if the work is a sound recording
- Authorize others to exercise all of the aforementioned rights (under their specific limitations)
